PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Presented By

2022 PGA PROFESSIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR
2022 WOMEN'S PGA PROFESSIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR
2022 SENIOR PGA PROFESSIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

PGA Professional Player of the Year recognition began in 1984; awarded to the PGA Professional, Senior PGA Professional and Women's PGA Professional (Women's POY: Board Meeting, Jan. 2018) Players of the Year. The winners are determined and points are accumulated during the January 1 through December 31 time range for any given year..

A PGA member will not be eligible to win any category of the PGA Professional Player of the Year Award if:

- a) The member has played in more than eight (8) combined Adams Pro Tour (APT), Asian Tour, Dakotas Tour, European Challenge Tour, European Senior Tour, European Tour, GPro Tour, JPGA Senior Tour, JPGA Tour, Korn Ferry Tour, Ladies European Tour (LET), Symetra Tour (LPGA), LPGA Tour, Mackenzie TOUR-Canada (incl. Forme TOUR), PGA Australia Tours, PGA New Zealand Tours, PGA TOUR, PGA TOUR Champions, PGA TOUR-China, PGA TOUR LatinoAmerica, SwingThought Tour, The Safari Tour and The Sunshine Tour tournaments between January 1 and December 31 in the same calendar year. The U.S. Open, U.S. Senior Open, U.S. Women's Open, PGA Championship, KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship and KPMG Women's PGA Championship are not included in the 8-tournament count;
- b) At any point in the year the member is suspended from membership;
- c) At any point in the year the member is suspended from tournament participation for either National or Section Tournaments; or
- d) The member is classified as Class F, RM, LMC, Reserve, A-3, or Honorary;
- e) The member has not played in at least one Section event plus one National event, or two Section events during the same year. (Board Meeting, March 2015)

The following point system (which includes adjustments thereafter) was adopted at the November 1992 Board Meeting. Below is a record of adjustments since 1992:

- Effective January 1, 2002, Korn Ferry (web.com) TOUR points became awarded on the basis of each tournament, rather than based on finish on the final money list. Reason: The PGA TOUR discontinued 3-5 "National" spots in every tournament in 2001, so players could play in up to 10 of these events in a year and stockpile points which might unfairly affect the final POY results. (PGA Tournament Department, July 2001).
- Effective January 1, 2009, no player in PGA TOUR, PGA TOUR Champions, Korn Ferry TOUR or LPGA Tour tournaments, who gains access into any such event through their conditional status, events played status, cuts made, money list status, prior tournament finishes or tournament win status, can earn PGA Professional, Senior Professional or Women's Professional Player of the Year points for that event (Annual Meeting, November 2008). Also effective January 1, 2009, the following points modifications were made: US Open/British Open, 1st place points increased from 800 to 1,000; PGA Championship, 1st place points increased from 800 to 1,000; PGA Professional Championship, 1st place points increased from 400 to 500; Winter Championship Stroke Play Championship, 1st place points increased from 200 to 250, 2nd place points decreased from 185 to 175, 3rd place points decreased from 170 to 165 and 4th place points decreased from 160 to 155. Points modifications were also made for the following Senior events: US Senior Open/Senior Open Championship, 1st place points increased from 400 to 500; Senior PGA Professional Championship, 1st place points were increased from 200 to 250; Winter Championships Senior Stroke Play Championship, 1st place points increased from 100 to 125 (Board Meeting, February 2009).

- Effective January 1, 2013, points for the PGA Winter Championships (Senior Stroke Play and Stroke Play) and PGA Tournament Series were reduced by 50% of their 2012 value (Board Meeting, Nov. 2012).
- Effective 2015, a 10% points reduction for all PGA TOUR, PGA TOUR Champions and Korn Ferry TOUR events was approved (Board Meeting, March 2015).

Section Performance. These points are based on each Section’s “Player of the Year” point standings with an additional 100 points awarded to the Section Champion only in each Section. (It was decided in July 1999 to award a similar 100 points to the winner (only) of all 41 Section PGA Professional Championships - BOD. SENIOR Section Champions and SENIOR PGA Professional Champions receive 50 points, accordingly).

There are different levels of player-strength in the various PGA Sections, therefore, a system has been developed to “weight” all Sections according to the overall playing ability of their PGA Professionals – not who has the best players, but which Sections have the most quality players. After all Sections are weighted, they are divided into four groups and this determines how many players within each Section receive points according to their final ranking on their respective “Section Player of the Year” point list. In other words, “stronger” Sections have access to more points, and more of their players earn these points. Points earned in the above are assigned to the calendar year WHEN INCURRED.

The following formula is used:

- a. 33% - Total number of PGA Professional Championship-eligible members in the Section (at beginning of current fiscal year – July 1).
- b. 33% - Total number of Section entries into their respective current year’s Section PGA Professional Championships.
- c. 33% - Total number of Section players making the 36-hole cut at the current year’s PGA Professional Championship.

All 41 Sections are ranked 1 through 41 in all three of the above categories. After the results from these three criteria are added, the Sections are ranked 1 through 41 by their totals. (i.e., lowest to highest). Ideally, all Sections are then divided into four equal-size groups of ten each (11 for Group A), and the following points are awarded to the top players from the various Section “Player of the Year” rankings. In the case of a tie, or ties, the sections are divided into Groups, possibly not of equal size, but what is deemed to be the “most-fair” manner.

The 41 Sections are divided into four divisions. Group “A” is considered the “strongest” and 15 of their players receive points. In Group “B”, 12 players are rewarded, followed by “C” with 9 and “D” with 6. The 1st place in all four groups receives the same number of points but differ thereafter down the list.

Eligibility:

- Must be a Woman PGA Member in good standing and in an eligible classification.
- Points can only be earned as a Woman PGA Member (i.e. an Associate that plays well in the PGA Winter Championships - Women's Stroke Play Championship will not earn points.)

Section Tournaments: A key component of the points system is identifying each Section's Women's Player of the Year. These points are based on women's participation in Section individual events. For an event to be eligible to count as a points event, it must be run by the Section. Players must compete in at least two (2) Section events to earn National points.

There are different levels of player-strength in the various Sections, therefore, a system has been developed to "weight" all Sections according to the overall number of women PGA Professionals in each (not which Section has the best players, but which has the most women PGA members). After all Sections are weighted, they are divided into four groups and this grouping determines how many players within each Section receive points, according to their final money rankings. In other words, Sections with more women Professionals have access to more points, and more of their players earn these points.

The following formula will be used:

100% - Total number of eligible women PGA members in the Section (on January 1st of the current year).

The Sections are then ranked 1 through 41 by their totals (i.e., highest to lowest) and divided into four equally-sized groups of ten each (11 for Group A). In the case of a tie, or ties, sections will be divided into Groups, possibly not of equal size, but in what is deemed to be the "most-fair" manner.

Group "A" has the largest number of female PGA Professional members and 10 of their players receive points. In Group "B", 7 players are rewarded, followed by "C" with 4 and "D" with 3. The 1st place in all four groups receive the same number of points, but points differ thereafter down the list.

	Group A	Group B	Group C	Group D
1 st	100	100	100	100
2 nd	90	80	60	50
3 rd	80	60	30	25
4 th	70	40	10
5 th	60	30
6 th	50	20
7 th	40	10
8 th	30
9 th	20
10 th	10

Section Responsibilities:

Sections are urged to track their own Women's Player of the Year point standings and report final results prior to December 20 (date subject to change for any given year) of the current year, similar to tracking "Regular", Senior and Assistant Players of the Year. This will enable the PGA to apply Section Player of the Year points towards the calculation of all National Players of the Year Awards and would give each section an opportunity to honor their own Women's PGA Player of the Year as well. It is suggested that the specific Section Events/Championships used to calculate Women's Player of the Year points be identified and published so all members are aware of this opportunity. Only women PGA members should be included in your points list reported to the PGA of America.

If a Section has very few women members and will require PGA to track, the Section must report results within three (3) business days of the conclusion of each event, women members must have played well and finished in the top 20, or tied for 20th place, and have earned prize money. Points will be based on final money earned from participating in individual Section events.
